

Allison LaPlante

Allison LaPlante is a Clinical Professor at Lewis & Clark Law School and the Co-Director of the law school's environmental litigation clinic, Earthrise Law Center, where she has been since 2005. Allison leads Earthrise's advocacy efforts related to water pollution, water quality standards, and aquatic species protection. Allison has significant experience litigating cases under statutes such as the Clean Water Act, the Endangered Species Act, the Clean Air Act, and the Resource Conservation and Recovery Act. Prior to joining Earthrise in 2005, Allison clerked for U.S. District Court Judge Garr M. King in the District of Oregon. Allison is a graduate of Cornell University (B.S. 1996) and Lewis & Clark Law School (J.D. 2002, cum laude). Allison is admitted to practice in Oregon state courts and the federal District of Oregon, the Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit, D.C. Circuit, 2nd Circuit, 3rd Circuit, and the U.S. Supreme Court. In her spare time, Allison enjoys cycling, hiking, and spending time with her husband and young sons.
